View from the Observation Deck

1. The S&P 500 Index plunged 33.8% from 2/19/20 through 3/23/20 on a total return basis. From 3/23/20 through 8/21/20, the index surged 53.0% and is once again setting new highs, according to Bloomberg.
2. Not only has it been risk-on for stock investors, we have seen bond investors assume more risk in search of higher returns.
3. As indicated in the chart above, while all the bond categories featured are in positive territory since the S&P 500 bottomed on 3/23/20, corporate bonds have significantly outperformed government and municipal bonds.
4. From April through July, investors funneled a net $318.46 billion into bond mutual funds and exchange-traded funds, according to Morningstar.
5. Click here to see how these bond categories performed after stocks peaked on 2/19/20 through 3/16/20. Investors clearly were pursuing a risk-off posture.
